HISTORY OF ROYALTON HARTLAND COMMUNITY LIBRARY

The Middleport Free Library was granted a provisional charter on July 19, 1929. It was later established on April 18, 1947 as a permanent charter to serve the residents of the Village of Middleport. An amendment to the Library's charter requesting an increase in the Library's service population area to include the Royalton Hartland Central School District and changing the name of the Middleport Free Library to the Royalton Hartland Community Library was submitted for approval from the New York State Education Department – Board of Regents. This charter amendment was approved effective April 4, 2012 and the new name for the library was changed to the Royalton Hartland Community Library following this approval by the Board of Regents.

LIBRARY OBJECTIVES

The general objectives of the Royalton Hartland Community Library are as follows:

1. To provide materials in order to promote through guidance and stimulation, the communication of ideas, an enlightened citizenship and enrich personal lives.
2. To serve the community as a center of reliable information.
3. To provide an atmosphere whereby original and sometimes critical ideas are present that society depends upon for its survival on free competition of ideas.
4. To encourage education, civic and cultural activities.
5. To provide the opportunity for all patrons to educate, entertain and enlighten themselves.
6. To identify community needs and provide services to meet these needs.

MATERIAL SELECTION POLICIES

Philosophy:

The purpose of this library is to serve the needs, interests, and abilities of the community by supplying it with library materials (books, periodicals, pamphlets, audio-visual materials, Internet access, etc.) and to serve all ages in the community from the youngest to the oldest resident.

Materials will be selected per the following:

1. for factual accuracy
2. for recreational value
3. for sincere and responsible opinions
4. to give all points of view on controversial issues
5. without regard to author's race, religion or politics

Objectives:

To build and maintain an active, vital collection of books and other library materials carefully chosen for their intrinsic worth, timeliness and usefulness to the community.

To furnish recreation for all ages.

To serve the needs of the serious reader and user through the purchase of high quality non-fiction, periodicals, computerized materials and reference works.

To provide the children and youth of the community with books and materials for their recreational and school-connected reading and reference needs.

Policies:

The library does not purchase the following types of books: genealogies, rare books (except those that deal with local history) and text books.

The library's aim is to represent all sides of controversial issues in our collection. We believe that "truth will prevail in the open market of competitive ideas." The Library reserves the right to display what the Board deems as controversial materials in a discreet manner and to require parental permission for patrons under the age of 18 years when accessing these materials.

In the matter of fiction, the library requires that a book be well written and possess a reasonable degree of artistic integrity. A book should be judged on its entirety and not passages taken out of context. We also believe that fiction of recognized creative value, generally distributed through the usual channels and widely reviewed and discussed, should be available to adults.

Gifts of books and other library materials will be accepted only if no conditions are imposed by the donor as to their integration into the library's collection in accordance with Library policies. The same standards of quality and usefulness will be applied to gifts as to materials purchased with library funds.

Legal Responsibility:

The Board of Trustees of the Royalton Hartland Community Library, as the policy-making and governing body of this library, is legally responsible for the selection and approval of all printed and published materials.

The Board of Trustees has delegated authority for this selection of materials to the Library Director.

The Library Director shall select materials for the library collection consistent with the community's needs, including supplementing the academic needs of area students.

Challenged Materials:

When there is an objection to the use of library material in an isolated situation, an attempt should be made to resolve the difficulty with the Library Director.

All formal criticisms of published material in the library collection shall be submitted in writing to the Board of Trustees (form available at the Library).

REQUESTS FOR REVIEW OF MATERIALS

The Library recognizes the right of any patron who is a resident of its service area to request review of any library materials and provides a forum for this purpose.

Discussion of such a request and actual review of the material is the responsibility of the Library Director and may not be delegated. If such review does not satisfy the patron, a written request may be made for a meeting with the Board of Trustees, whose decision is final.

LIBRARY BILL OF RIGHTS

The American Library Association affirms that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that the following basic policies should guide their services.

1. Books and other library resources should be provided for the interest, information, and enlightenment of all people of the community the library serves. Materials should not be excluded because of the origin, background, or views of those contributing to their creation.
2. Libraries should provide materials and information presenting all points of view on current and historical issues. Materials should not be prescribed or removed because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.
3. Libraries should challenge censorship in the fulfillment of their responsibility to provide the information and enlightenment.
4. Libraries should cooperate with all persons and groups concerned with resisting abridgment of free expression and free access to ideas.
5. A person's right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.

6. Libraries which make exhibit spaces and meetings rooms available to the public they serve should make such facilities available on an equitable basis, regardless of the beliefs or affiliations of individuals or groups requesting their use.

Adopted June 18, 1948

Amended February 2, 1961, June 27, 1967 January 23, 1980

By the American Library Association Council

COLLECTION MAINTENANCE

Materials which are no longer useful in the light of state objectives of the Library will be systematically weeded from the collection according to accepted professional practices.

Regular weeding eliminates materials once interest has subsided. An effort is made to retain some information on both sides of a controversial issue.

The following criteria for weeding are:

- Information is out of date
- Deteriorating condition of material
- Space considerations
- Revised updated edition is available to replace current material
- Eliminate duplicates if little demand

NO MATERIALS SHALL BE WITHDRAWN FROM THE LOCAL HISTORY OR SPECIAL BOOK COLLECTIONS.

BORROWING OF MATERIAL

Generally no limit on the number of items borrowed exists unless a patron is not in good standing (e.g. overdue books, lost books).

All books will be loaned for a two week period. Items may be renewed if not reserved by another patron. Periodicals, DVD's and videos circulate for one (1) week.

If an item is overdue, the staff at the Library will attempt to call the patron up to two times as a reminder. If no action follows, a bill to the patron regarding overdue fees will be mailed. If satisfactory action does not follow, the patron may lose his/her library borrowing privileges.

Overdue fees are as follows:

- Books - $0.10 per day (maximum fine up to $5)
 - Children's books - $0.05 per day
 - Magazines - $0.05 per day
 - DVD/s, videos - $1.00/day (maximum fine up to $10)
- Patrons are able to request materials not available at the Royalton Hartland Community Library from other libraries in the NIOGA system. Patrons must assume full responsibility for interloan materials.

CONFIDENTIALITY OF LIBRARY USE

The Royalton Hartland Community Library will not disclose patron identity in regard to library usage of materials as per New York State Law.

“Library records, which contain names or other personally identifying details regarding the users of public, free association, school, college and university libraries and library systems of this state, including but not limited to records related to the circulation of library materials, computer database researches, interlibrary loan transactions, reference queries, requests for photocopies of library materials, title reserve request, or the use of audio visual materials, films or records, shall be confidential and shall not be disclosed except that such records may be disclosed to the extent necessary for the proper operation of such library and shall be disclosed upon request or consent of the user or pursuant to subpoena, court order or where otherwise required by statute.”

PUBLIC USE OF COMPUTERS AND INTERNET ACCESS POLICY

The Royalton Hartland Community Library offers access to electronic resources including computer stations and the Internet as part of its mission to provide services and materials in a variety of formats to meet the information and educational needs of the community. The Royalton Hartland Community Library cannot guarantee that information found through the Internet is accurate, authoritative or factual. The Library cannot be held responsible for the content of sites on the Internet. Users are hereby notified that they are responsible for the choices of sites they visit.

Library patrons are advised, as with all library materials, inclusion of an item in the Library's collection in no way implies endorsement of its author, contents, or views. Parents or responsible adults should guide minors in the proper use of the Internet and inform them about materials they should not use. Any restrictions of a child's access to electronic materials are the responsibility of the parents or guardians.

To use the public patron computer stations, a patron must first present his/her library card at the circulation desk before accessing a computer. The staff will then check out a computer station to that patron.

Due to the limited number of computers, the use of a computer will be limited to one (1) hour. If there are no other patrons waiting, the user may be checked out to a computer for an additional hour. If others are waiting, a person must relinquish his/her right at the end of the session. If a person leaves his/her session for more than five minutes, it is assumed that he/she has yielded the remainder of his/her time, and the station will be considered unoccupied.

Patrons 12 and under must have a responsible adult with them or a signed permission slip from a responsible adult prior to using the Internet. Permission slips are available at the desk. Use of instant messaging, emailing, or chat rooms is not allowed.

No personal software may be used on Library computers.

It is the responsibility of all users of electronic resources at the Royalton Hartland Community Library to respect intellectual property rights. Copyright restrictions may exist for individual electronic resources. Patrons may only make copies allowable by copyright laws or licensed software agreements.

Printing material from computer stations is permitted as long as it does not violate the generally accepted rules of copyright. Patrons are responsible for all pages they print out. The cost for printed pages is 20 cents a page for black and white pages and 40 cents a page for color pages.

Users must not alter, remove, or damage configurations, software or hardware on the Library computers. Users may not change the settings of the computers or download software onto the computers.

Users must refrain from illegal, criminal, or unethical use of the Internet. Use of the Internet for activities that violate local, state, or federal laws is prohibited. This includes activities such as viewing pornography, committing fraud, hacking, violating software license agreements, unauthorized copying of copyright protected material, violating user privacy or spreading libel or slander. Any illegal activity involving the use of the Library's computers may be subject to prosecution by the appropriate authorities.

Users must respect the privacy of others using the computers/Internet stations. In addition, patrons must be considerate; displaying sexually explicit graphics is inappropriate for a public and open environment where children may be present and able to view the screen.

Any damage to the computer or its peripheral devices is the responsibility of the user. Misuse or abuse of the equipment or the service will result in the user being denied further access to the service and/or library privileges. Malicious damage may result prosecution.

The Royalton Hartland Community Library expressly disclaims any liability or responsibility, including copyright infringement arising from access to or use in information obtained through its electronic information systems, or any consequence thereof.

The Royalton Hartland Community Library Board of Trustees reserves the discretionary privilege to revise this policy and/or the Wireless Internet Access Policy when it is deemed necessary.

Misuse or abuse of the computer Internet access may result in suspensions of Internet and/or Library privileges.

WIRELESS INTERNET ACCESS POLICY

As a service to our patrons, the Royalton Hartland Community Library provides free wireless Internet access during regular Library hours. By using the wireless network, you are agreeing to comply with this Wireless Access Policy as well as the Library Policy concerning use of the Internet.

The use of the wireless network may be revoked at the discretion of the Library staff if a patron is interfering with the normal Library operations, and/or is in violation of this policy, including the provisions below.

Please be aware that the wireless network is not secure. Like many public wireless hot spots, information is not encrypted and is subject to electronic eavesdropping by others.

Wireless users are responsible for providing for the security of their own equipment and electronic communications.

The Library assumes no responsibility for the safety, function, or performance of equipment, or for laptop configurations, security, or data files resulting from connection to the Library's network.

The Library will not be responsible for any personal information that is compromised, or for any damage caused to hardware or software on a patron's device due to electrical surges, security issues or consequences caused by viruses or hacking.

Library Staff is not able to provide technical assistance to wireless users.

Harassing conduct includes any behavior that degrades or shows hostility or aversion toward an individual or group based on race, religion, gender, national origin, age, or disability.

Sexual harassment, which is a form of harassment, is defined as any unwanted physical, verbal or visual sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other sexually-oriented conduct, which is offensive or objectionable to the recipient, including, but not limited to: epithets, derogatory or suggestive comments, slurs or gestures; and offensive posters, cartoons, pictures or drawings.

Worker harassment would occur when any of the following occurs:

- Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment
- Submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for any employment decision affecting such individual, or
- Such conduct has the purpose or effect of substantially interfering with an individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive working environment

The Royalton Hartland Community Library Board of Directors, or at their discretion, the Library Director, is responsible for taking corrective action to prevent harassment at the Library. Any worker has the right at any time to raise the issue of harassment without fear of reprisal. Allegations of harassment will be promptly investigated giving due regard to the need for confidentiality.

Where an investigation confirms that harassment has occurred by a worker, disciplinary action up to and including termination may be taken based upon the seriousness of the violation. If the harassment is the result of a patron's actions, the Board may bar the patron from access to the Library.

Complaints of harassment should be brought to the attention of any of the following: the Library Director or any member of the Board of Trustees.

Upon notification of a complaint, a confidential investigation will immediately be initiated to gather all facts about the complaint by one of the above listed individuals. The investigation procedure and all records pertaining to the investigation will be kept confidential on a "need to know" basis only.

Upon completion of the investigation, a determination will be made by the Board of Trustees regarding resolution of the complaint. Disciplinary action, if the harasser is an employee, up to and including termination may result. If the harasser is a patron, such person may be barred from future access to the Library.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST POLICY

This Conflict of Interest Policy governs the activities of the Board of Trustees and staff at the Royalton Hartland Community Library. Questions about the policy should be directed to the President, Board of Trustees, or Library Director.

It is the duty of all Board members and staff to be aware of this policy, and to identify conflicts of interest and situations that may result in the appearance of a conflict and to disclose those situations/conflicts/or potential conflicts to the Library Director or President, Board of Trustees.

This policy provides guidelines for identifying conflicts, disclosing conflicts and procedures to be followed to assist the Royalton Hartland Community Library manage conflicts of interest and situations that may result in the appearance of a conflict.

What is a conflict of interest?

A conflict of interest arises when a Board member or staff member has a personal interest that conflicts with the interests of the Royalton Hartland Community Library or arise in situations where a board/staff member has divided loyalties (also known as a “duality of interest”). The former can result in situations that result in inappropriate financial gain to persons in authority at the Royalton Hartland Community Library, which can lead to financial penalties and violations of IRS regulations. Similarly, situations or transactions arising out of a conflict of interest can result in either inappropriate financial gain or the appearance of a lack of integrity in the Royalton Hartland Community Library’s decision- making process. Both results are damaging to the Royalton Hartland Community Library and are to be avoided.

Who might be affected by this policy?

Typically persons who are affected by a conflict of interest policy are the organization’s board members and staff at the library. In some cases a major donor could also be in a conflict situation. The Royalton Hartland Community Library takes a broad view of conflicts and board/staff are urged to think of how a situation/transaction would appear to outside parties when identifying conflicts or possible conflicts of interest.

Disclosure of Conflicts

Board members and staff will annually disclose and promptly update any disclosures previously made on an Annual Conflict Disclosure Form provided by the Royalton Hartland Community Library. This form requests them to identify their interest that could give rise to conflicts of interest, such as a list of family members, substantial business or investment holdings, and other transactions or affiliations with businesses and other organizations or those of family members as well as other nonprofit organizations.

Board members/staff are also urged to disclose conflicts as they arise as well as to disclose those situations that are evolving that may result in a conflict of interest. Advance disclosure must occur so that a determination may be made as to the appropriate plan of action to manage the conflict. Staff should disclose to the Library Director and Board members should disclose to the President, Board of Trustees as soon as the person with the conflict is aware of the conflict/potential conflict or appearance of a conflict exists.

Procedures to manage conflicts

For each interest disclosed, the full Board of Trustees will determine whether the Royalton Hartland Community Library should: (a) disclose the situation more broadly and invite discussion/resolution by the full board of what action to take, or (b) refrain from taking action and otherwise avoid the conflict.

In most cases the broadest disclosure possible is advisable so that decision-makers can make informed decisions that are in the best interest of the Library.

When conflict involves a decision-maker, the person with the conflict (i.e. “interested party”): (1) must fully disclose the conflict to all other decision-makers; (2) may not be involved in the decision of what action to take (e.g. may not participate in a vote) but may serve as a resource to provide other decision-makers with needed information.

In some cases the person with the conflict may be asked to recuse him/her from sensitive discussions so as not to unduly influence the discussion of the conflict.

In all cases, decisions involving a conflict will be made only by disinterested persons.

The fact that a conflict was managed and the outcome will be documented in the minutes of the board meetings if the conflict was related to a board member, and reported by the President, Board of Trustees or Library Director if the conflict was related to a Board member or staff.

The President, Board of Trustees, will monitor proposed or ongoing transactions of the Library (e.g. contracts with vendors) for conflicts of interest and disclose them to the Board and staff, as appropriate, whether discovered before or after the transaction has occurred.

DOCUMENTATION RETENTION & DESTRUCTION POLICY

PURPOSE

The purpose of this document retention & destruction policy is for the Royalton Hartland Community Library to ensure compliance with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and to promote the proper treatment of Library records.

GENERAL GUIDELINES

Records should not be kept if they are no longer needed for the operation of the Library or required by law. Unnecessary records should be eliminated from the files.

From time to time, the Library may establish retention or destruction policies or schedules for specific categories of records in order to ensure legal compliance, and also to accomplish other objectives, such as preserving intellectual property and cost management. Several categories of documents that warrant special consideration are identified below. While minimum retention periods are established, the retention of the documents identified below and of documents not included in the identified categories should be determined primarily by the application of the general guidelines affecting document retention, as well as the exception of litigation relevant documents and any other pertinent factors.

Exception for litigation relevant documents

The Library expects all members of the Board of Trustees and its staff to comply fully with any published records retention or destruction policies and schedules, provided that all board members and staff should note the following general exception to any stated destruction schedule: If you believe, or the Library informs you, that the Library records are relevant to litigation, or potential litigation (i.e. a dispute that could result in litigation), then you must preserve those records until it is determined that the records are no longer needed. That exception supersedes any previously or subsequently established destruction schedule for those records.

MINIMUM RETENTION PERIODS FOR SPECIFIC CATEGORIES

(a) Organizational Documents: Organizational records include the Library's Articles of Incorporation, By-Laws and all relevant IRS forms.

Organizational records should be retained permanently.

(b) Tax records: Tax records include, but may not be limited to, documents concerning payroll, expenses, proof of contributions made by donors, accounting procedures, and other documents concerning the Library's revenues. Tax records should be retained for at least seven years from the date of filing the applicable return.

(c) Employment Records/Personnel Records: State and federal statutes require the Library to keep certain recruitment, employment and personnel information. The Library should also keep personnel files that reflect performance reviews and any complaints brought against the Library or individual employees under applicable state and federal statutes. The Library should also keep in the employee's personnel file all final memoranda and correspondence reflecting performance reviews and actions taken by or against personnel. Employment applications should be retained for three years. Other employment and personnel records should be retained for seven years.

(d) Board and Board Committee Materials: Meeting minutes should be retained in perpetuity. All other Board and Board Committee materials should be kept for no less than three years by the Library.

(e) Press Releases/Public Filings: The Library should retain permanent copies of all press releases and publicly filed documents under the theory that the Library should have its own copy to test the accuracy of any document a member of the public can theoretically produce against the Library.

(f) Legal files: Legal counsel should be consulted to determine the retention period of particular documents, but legal documents should generally be maintained for a period of ten years.

(g) Contracts: Final, execution copies of all contracts entered into by the Library should be retained. The Library should retain copies of the final contracts for at least three years beyond the life of the agreement, and longer in the case of publicly filed contracts.

(i) Banking and Accounting: Accounts payable, ledger and schedules should be kept for seven years. Bank reconciliations, bank statements, deposit slips and checks (unless for important payments and purchases) should be kept for three years. Any inventories of products, materials, and supplies and any invoices should be kept for seven years.

(j) Insurance: Expired insurance policies, insurance records, accident reports, claims, etc. should be kept permanently.

(k) Audit Records: External audit reports should be kept permanently. Internal audit reports should be kept for three years.

(l) Electronic Mail: E-mail that needs to be saved should be either: printed in hard copy and kept in the appropriate file; or downloaded to a computer file and kept electronically or on a disk as a separate file. BOARD-DESIGNATED ENDOWMENT FUND SPENDING POLICY

Statement of Spending Policy Objectives

The Royalton Hartland Community Library Board of Trustees has determined that a spending policy with respect to the Library's Endowment Fund ("Endowment") should be subject to a written policy. The purpose of this Endowment Spending Policy is to establish the procedures and rules applicable to the annual – and overall- spending of the Library's Endowment.

The objectives of the Endowment Spending Policy are:

- To ensure that the spending of the Endowment is managed in such a way that the Royalton Hartland Community Library can continue to provide a highly valued service to the community while lessening, as much as possible, the financial burden on the taxpayers;

- To grow the size of the Endowment

Purpose of the Endowment:

The purpose of the Endowment is to provide:

- Programs with a stable and predictable stream of revenue;

- A revenue stream that does not decline over the long term;

- A permanent source of financial support for the Library;
- A contribution to the annual operating budget of the Library as needed in an amount deemed appropriate by the Board of Trustees;
- A financial reserve against a serious financial shortfall due to unforeseen events; and
- Money for capital projects approved by the Board of Trustees

Allocation of Donations

The Board of Trustees will determine whether funds received by the Library through contributions from donors are intended as contributions to the Endowment, the annual operating budget or specials projects. In any event, the Board of Trustees will act on the requests of individual donors that may dictate the specific purpose for which specific funds are received to the extent that such instructions are given.

Spending

Subject to review and adjustment annually by the Board of Trustees, it is our objective to budget 5% of the Endowment Fund balance as of each June 30th to the next fiscal year's budgeted revenue. This target is set based on an estimated 5% average expected return of a balance portfolio.

Amendment

The Board of Trustees shall review this Policy at the annual Library Board meeting and reserves the right to amend this Endowment Spending Policy at any time.
